Charlie Bayne Travel Trust

Going on a trip this Summer? Facing extra costs because of your disability?

Apply for up to £500 towards your trip.

The trust provides grants for disabled students who plan to travel over the summer, both abroad and within the UK. Grants are used to finance travel that is educational in the broadest sense, such as archival research, residential courses and taking the opportunity to travel independently.

The trustees award grants up to £500 per person to students of the University of Cambridge and Anglia Ruskin University. The fund is primarily for wheelchair users and students with physical disabilities including those with sensory impairments.
